

FRESH DENTAL CARE

Why do I need to share a complete medical history with my dentist?

During your first dental visit, your dentist will ask for a thorough medical history, which typically is included on a patient registration. This history, combined with the results of your initial clinical examination, will help to assess your immediate dental care needs and recommend the best treatment approach.

What kind of health information should I share and how specific should I be?

Mention everything about your health, even if you don't think it relates to your mouth. If you have had surgery or a major illness, be sure to include this information in the medical history of your patient information section.

Many diseases can have significant effects on your mouth and teeth, and researchers continue to discover ways in which oral health is related to overall health. Diabetes, for instance, can increase the risk of periodontal disease.

Suggested items to include on your patient registration form:

- Any recent heart surgery (within the last six months)
- Artificial heart valve(s)
- Asthma
- Congenital Heart defect
- Epilepsy/seizures
- History of rheumatic fever
- History of heart murmur/mitral valve prolapse
- Medications: Prescribed or over-the-counter
- Pacemaker
- Previous bacterial endocarditis
- Systemic pulmonary shunt
- About any allergies you have (including latex allergy)
- If you are pregnant
- Any health problem or medical condition you are being treated for

Should I tell my dentist about any medications I am taking?

Information about medications you are currently taking can be vital to your health, especially in an emergency. Your health conditions may require us to change the type of anesthesia given. Your dentist also will want to make sure that any medications we prescribe don't interact with medications you already are taking. If you are visiting your dentists for the first time, bring a current list of medications just to be sure your dentist has an accurate record.

How often should I update my medical history?

After your first visit, be sure to keep our office informed any time there is a change in your current health status. Let your dentist know if you are pregnant, have developed allergies or are a smoker.

How can I be assured my medical history and records will remain private?

Our office cannot release any diagnosis or office visit information without your consent. You may be asked to sign a release form so that our office can provide that information to the insurance company for health insurance benefits.

Insurance companies are required to keep that information confidential from anyone not directly involved with your care or with processing your insurance, just as physicians, hospitals and other health service providers are.

INSURANCE ASSIGNMENT OFFICE POLICY

- Our office, as a courtesy, will accept assignment of our patient's dental insurance whenever possible, however it does not absolve the patient of full responsibility for the charges incurred for treatment rendered. The estimate of what an insurance company will pay is considered a guideline until the final insurance payment is received and the patient's account is reconciled. An insurance policy is a contract between the patient and their insurance company; therefore our office cannot guarantee what an insurance company will eventually pay.
- Our office will promptly submit insurance claims on behalf of our patients after their treatment is completed. Any balance not paid by the insurance company shall be the sole responsibility of the patient. Our staff is always available to answer your questions.
